Statement of Significance

Last updated on - February 25, 2005

The former shire office, post office and court house are regionally significant as having embodied many of the town's major historical functions in one building over a long period, longer than most buildings standing in the former Cranbourne Shire today. It is of immense historical importance to the town and among the oldest public buildings in the West Gippsland region. The building is also one of the few 19th century buildings in Cranbourne and hence one of the few reminders of the area's past. It is, and has been for a long period, easily recognisable as one of the town's foundation buildings and forms a historic couplet to the adjacent street tree avenue, providing the essence of the town's character as perceived by many over time.
