Statement of Significance

Last updated on - April 11, 2008

A single-manual organ of five stops built in the early years of the present century by the Positive Organ Company, London, for a church at Levuka, Fiji, and installed at Aberfeldie in 1963. One of two 'Positive' organs in Victoria (the other at St Luke's, Yea), this instrument is substantially unaltered and has an attractive Gothic case with two painted towers containing spotted metal pipes.
