A church built in 1898 to the design of Sydney Smith in a very advanced style derived essentially from the Romansque and characterised by the contrast of cement dressings against pressed red brick; also with dark brick diapering and chequer-board gables. The interior space is centralised with a ramped floor and fine timber furnishings, and now includes a Fincham organ originally made for the Baptist church in East Melbourne. Classified: 03/03/1988
