Statement of Significance

Last updated on - July 19, 2004

A church of bluestone with Waurin Ponds stone dressings built in 1861, but remarkable for the tower added in 1878 to the design of Alexander Davidson.

The latter is in a French Decorated Gothic style with details such as the weather vane and gargoyles showing the influence of the French architect and historian Viollet-le-Duc, of whom Davidson was a follower.
