Statement of Significance

Last updated on -

These two elaborately decorated terrace houses are fine examples of this building typ. They are unique to Kyneton and have an important streetscape role. The exterior appearance belies the small size of the cottages, the northern one containing two rooms (one each side of the hallway) while the southern one contains four rooms in the brick section. rear timber addition have been made to both houses. Features of the exterior are the elaborate stucco door and window surrounds, the dividing wall arched decorative stucco moulding, cast iron verandahs, chimneys and the tuckpointed face brick walls with their roaised piers.
