Statement of Significance

Last updated on - April 21, 2008

An Evangelical Lutheran church built in 1928. Of social & religious significance as the 'mother' of a number of satellite churches, and of architectural interest because of the architect, George Nichterlein's, attempts to evoke German Romanesque, Gothic and Baroque. All of these are combined in the facade, with a hint of Art Deco, and to a lesser extent in the interior with its fine timber wagon vault roof.
