Statement of Significance

Last updated on - December 14, 2005

One of the largest country parish churches in Victoria, built in 1907-9 of bluestone with dressings of Mt Abrupt freestone, to the design of the Ballarat architects Clegg and Miller. The building comprises nave, double transepts and spire, with elongated belfry and corner pinnacles, to the north-west.

The facade has an elaborate traceried five-light window.
