Statement of Significance

Last updated on - June 16, 2008

Rare or localised

This tree is a member of a species endemic to Victoria but listed as rare or threatened. Although it is common in cultivation, the species occurs naturally only in two locations in Victoria, Buxton and Yering. The first site, near Buxton, contains a substantial population of more than 1000 trees. The second, near Yering, contains some 25 trees.

The health of these trees is at risk by the parasitic Dodder Laurel.

The tree is located 3.2km by road south of Buxton P.O. on west side of Narbethong-Taggerty Road
