Statement of Significance

Last updated on - July 14, 2004

Rare or localised

An attractive specimen of a species uncommon in cultivation in Victoria. Other known examples occur at Taradale, Beechworth and the Royal Botanic Gardens. Pinus sylvestris is native to Europe and Asia, ranging from Ireland in the west to eastern Siberia and as far north as inside the Arctic Circle. This specimen is very well developed despite being affected by strong winds.

Located south west of the playground
